

I have some 60 years experience with large communication company methods of doing business. The service responsiveness and performance I receive from my locally owned and operated ISP is superlative compared to the relatively ignorant, ineffective and sometimes downright insulting BS one normally receives from the large Telcos. At least when I talk to a local representative, they know in which time zone and state I reside.

Thank you.

Mike Noble